Subject Overview
Visitor experiences have been called the raison d'être or the essence of the tourism industry. The chance to obtain these experiences is a major reason why people voluntarily leave their homes and travel to other destinations. This subject explores the importance for tourism enterprises of focusing on the experiences that their visitors obtain and to move beyond a narrow focus on products and services. In doing so it considers a holistic view of the visitor experience journey and how tourism organisations can plan and design sites and activities that allow visitors to obtain memorable or extraordinary experiences from their interaction with them.

Learning Outcomes
- Evaluate the dimensions of the visitor experience
- Review the factors that influence a visitor’s experience
- Design for the visitor experience at all stages of their journey
- Plan the management of the visitor experience
